

DAWN TO DUSK AIR FLIGHT IS ON SIX DEAD, SCORE INJURED IN STORMS

MIDWEST STRUCK BY ELECTRICAL DISTURBANCES

Property Damage Will Run Into Hundreds of Thou- sands of Dollars

Chicago, June 23.—Six deaths, a score or more injured and crop and property damage that will range into hundreds of thousands were the known cost today of the violent storms accompanied by electrical disturbances which struck in the Midwest Sunday.

Three were dead in Chicago, two from lightning and a third, Michael Shagney, from a plunge of eleven stories when he attempted to close an office window while the storm was at its height.

Stanley Barelew, a caddy, was killed when lightning struck the tree under which he and several golfers sought shelter, and Acting Fire Captain Timothy Murphy was struck dead by a bolt while directing the fight on a city fire during the storm.

Three were reported killed and twenty injured in a tornado which struck near Tracey, Minn.

Crops, power and communication lines and buildings in the storms path suffered heavy damages as the violent gales, accompanied by a deluge of rain, moved eastward from the Dakotas into Minnesota.

DAYTON REPORTER FIRST TO WRITE NEWS STORY IN AIR

Dayton, O., June 23.—Maurice E. Hutton, Dayton reporter, today was credited with writing the first newspaper story in an airplane, while rippling through space at the rate of ninety miles an hour.

The story here is regarded as an achievement clear out of the ordinary in as much as it was written while in actual flight.

Hutton wrote his story in the rear cockpit of a Martin bomber, which served as the flagship for the Wilbur Wright field battle fleet, which participated in the aerial circus at Louisville.

The flagship, right out in front of the apex of the formation was equipped with all kinds of instruments and as he wrote Hutton indicated the speed being made and the altitude.

The copy showed for itself that the ship rode an even keel for there was hardly a misplaced comma in the entire manuscript of 1,500 words.

Hutton related the flight as it actually occurred naming the towns over which the fleet passed.

On arriving at Louisville Hutton sent his story back to Dayton in an airplane for early use, and the city editor who handled the copy was greatly surprised for Hutton acted upon his own initiative and told no one of his plans.

McCook field men today asserted that this was the first time a newspaper story had been written in an airplane while in actual flight and commended the young man, highly for his ingenuity, as did Hutton's boss.

A dense fog prevented Maughan from hopping off this morning.

OHIO DELEGATES WILL BE LOYAL TO EX-GOVERNOR

To Employ Tactics Used At San Francisco Meeting

New York June 23.—James M. Cox will have the support of the Ohio delegation until a nomination for president is made.

This was announced by members of the delegation on their arrival here. They declare it was by this means that they succeeded in getting the San Francisco convention to nominate their candidate four years ago and that they again will use the same tactics. The delegation is in charge of Robert S. Hays of Columbus, pre-convention manager for Cox.

Ed H. Moore of Youngstown, has been selected to lead the anti-McAdoo forces. As a corollary to this selection comes the movement started here to have Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet, made chairman of the resolutions committee.

Mr. Cox and all of his adherents here apparently are determined that Wilson and his policies shall not be forgotten by his party less than a year after his death, and it is with this end in view that Mr. Baker is being pushed here for the chairmanship of the resolutions committee. Should the anti-McAdoo forces prove strong enough in the resolutions committee to obtain the defeat of Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, former Democratic national chairman, who has been elected for the chairmanship of the platform drafting body and eject Mr. Baker, it will be looked upon as a blow to the presidential hopes of the former secretary of the treasury, son-in-law of Mr. Wilson.

Moore, who is the leading candidate against W. W. Durbin, state executive committee chairman, for the place, is urging that for strategy's sake the national committee must be selected before the convention opens. "We can't afford to have it said that Ohio Democrats are so far divided that they can't even choose a national committee without a fight that leaves a sore spot which will divide the delegation. The thing to do is get it over with. I am a good friend of Bill Durbin, and he is a friend of mine. Whoever can get the most votes will be elected. And that's all there is to it. Why wait?" he said.

Durbin is said to have 26 of the 52 votes pledged, which would give him a plurality in the four-cornered contest, as Mr. White and W. A. Julian of Cincinnati also are in the race.

DEMOCRATS WILL OPEN NATIONAL MEET TUESDAY

Temporary Chairman Har- rison Will Sound Keynote of Convention.

New York, June 23.—The Democratic national convention will be called to order at noon tomorrow by Chairman Cordell Hull of the Democratic national committee.

According to the program, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, the temporary chairman, will deliver the keynote speech immediately after Chairman Hull's introductory address. It has not yet been determined when nominating speeches for the presidential candidates will begin. Some convention officials want to go ahead with that at Wednesday's session, while the platform committee is at work, but with the understanding that there shall be no balloting until the platform has been adopted. No decision is likely until after the session of Tuesday.

There will be enough nominating and secondary speeches to last many hours.

The list of those who will speak is not yet complete, but the following so far have been selected: For William G. McAdoo, former Senator James D. Phelan of California; for Alfred E. Smith, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic vice presidential candidate of 1920; for Senator Oscar W. Underwood, Forney Johnson of Birmingham, Ala.; for James M. Cox, Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war; for John W. Davis, Judge John M. Holt of Huntington, W. Va.; for Governor O. S. Siler, John A. Matthews of Newark, N. J.; for Senator Joseph T. Robinson, former Governor Charles H. Brough of Arkansas; for Governor Jonathan Davis, Representative Ayres of Kansas; for Governor Charles W. Bryan, Harry B. Fleaharty of Omaha, and for former Senator Willard Saulsbury, Senator Charles F. Bayard of Delaware.

Political observers believe it will take a half dozen ballots, at least, to reach the lowest level since 1913 when one of the leading milk delivery companies announced that the price of milk delivered at retail would be reduced to ten cents a quart and six cents a pint, next Tuesday. It was stated that this reduction was necessary to provide a larger market for the oversupply of fluid milk in the Cincinnati districts.

NEW YORK CENTRAL IS DEFENDANT IN INJUNCTION CASE

Cleveland, June 23.—Alleging nineteen specific violations of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts, the General Investment Company of Maine, has filed suit in United States District Court here, praying for an injunction against the New York Central Railroad Company, to restrain it from controlling through its directors the Michigan Central, Big Four, Cincinnati, Northern and Toledo and Ohio Central Railroad companies, which came under the control of the New York Central, the petition recites, through consolidation of 1914.

The petition declares that these railroads, especially the Big Four through an interlocking directorate, have been prevented from competing with the New York Central for traffic over parallel lines.

A similar suit, filed by a Delaware Company, was recently dismissed by Judge D. C. Westenhaver here. He held that such action was contemplated could be only by the district attorney or attorney general.

THREATENED STRIKE OF CARMEN AVERTED

Cleveland, June 23.—Action by common pleas court averted a strike or lockout of street railway employees until Wednesday noon. On the petition of the streetcar men the court issued an injunction restraining the traction company from doing anything to upset its present contract with the men until after the hearing on the restraining order, which is set for Wednesday noon. At this hearing the matter of wages, including the 12 cents an hour increase granted the men by three of a board of five arbitrators and rejected by the company, will be taken up as one part of the proceedings. The court action came as a last-minute surprise in the dispute between the men and the company. The suit for an injunction was filed under the direction of attorneys for the union officials.

PRESIDENT BACK AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, June 23.—The President and Mrs. Coolidge and their sons, John and Calvin, Jr., returned to the White House at 3:30 o'clock this morning, after a week end cruise in the Potomac river and Chesapeake Bay on the yacht Mayflower.

Chairman Butler of the Republican national committee, Ambassador Warren and other political leaders, who embarked with the president Saturday evening, left the Mayflower Sunday afternoon.

PLUNGE 75 FEET FROM ROADWAY

Wheeling, W. Va., June 23.—Plunging seventy-five feet from the roadway to railroad tracks beneath, at a point north of this city, a party of four Steubenville people Sunday had a close call. The more seriously injured were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harvey, who were able to leave the hospital this morning.

P. J. Duffy, also in the party was unhurt.

Farm - Labor Meeting Ruled by Foster.

William Z. Foster, Communist leader, rode roughshod over the more conservative element of the Farmer-Labor Progressive Party in session in St. Paul, Minn., and roundly denounced U. S. Senator La Follette, whose Presidential candidacy the meeting had been called to advocate.

RECOMMENDS SALE OF OHIO PROPERTY AS WATER SCARCE

Columbus, June 23.—According to State Welfare Director John E. Harper, the state may never be able to use the Grafton farm for an institution for feeble-minded. Scarcity of water is the difficulty the department is up against, Harper said. The department has drilled three wells on the farm and had hoped to be able to supply the proposed institution from these wells. A few days ago, however, one of the wells began to spout oil. The state department of health then condemned the three wells. One of the wells may be saved by treatment, but it will not furnish sufficient water to supply such an institution as the department contemplated, Harper said.

An attempt was made to have the city of Elyria furnish water, but the rate asked was prohibitive, according to Harper. In addition to the high rate, the state would be compelled to spend more than $100,000 in laying a pipe line from the city to the farm, he said. The lack of water also would embarrass the institution in disposing of its sewage, according to Harper. He said the only running water on the farm is a county ditch, which is dry a large part of the year. Harper suggests the sale of the property.

INCOME TAXES TO BE REFUNDED SOON

Washington, June 23.—More than 16,000,000 overpaid income taxes on March 15 will be refunded, as a result of the 25 per cent reduction granted by congress. Comptroller General McCard advised the treasury that it may use any funds appropriated for repayment of illegally collected taxes and Secretary Mellon immediately laid plans for paying back the extra 25 per cent turned in by 1,085,000 persons. The decision removed the barrier to the refunding of the overpayments occasioned by failure of congress to pass the deficiency bill, which carried money for that purpose. "The taxpayers' right to refunds," the decision said, "is an obligation upon the appropriation for the fiscal year when the claim is made."

PREMIERS MEET IN OPEN CONFERENCE

London, June 23.—The forthcoming conference of Premier MacDonald and Premier Herriot of France, is hailed as a new era in diplomacy. Both are Socialists and both have been consistent enemies of "secret diplomacy and secret agreements."

It is generally felt that the conference will sound the death knell of the old Poincare policy towards Germany and will re-establish Anglo-French accord on a new and firmer basis.

The conference is expected to deal almost wholly with ways and means for putting the Dawes reparation plan into execution as soon as possible.

MAUGHAN LEAVES NEW YORK EARLY MONDAY; LOSES HOUR IN DAYTON

Army Flyer Ahead of Previous Schedule Hops Off From Mitchell Field to Cross Continent During Daylight Hours.

Rosecrans Field, St. Joseph, Mo., June 23.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, making his third attempt to traverse the continent between dawn and dusk in an airplane, arrived here at 10:55 o'clock central standard time, this morning, completing the first half of his journey.

The plane was in excellent condition. Maughan was confident that he would be successful in making his trip to the coast this time before night fall. He said:

"I am feeling fine, machine is going excellently. I have had no trouble at all. I think I can make it this time."

Maughan had covered 1,141 miles, when he arrived here.

He left here at 11:37 for Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Decatur, Ill., June 23.—Despite his loss of an hour at Dayton through gas line trouble, Lieutenant Maughan was thirty seven minutes ahead of his last year's schedule when he passed Decatur at 8:53 a. m., central standard time. He passed Illinois, at 9 a. m.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 23.—Lieutenant Maughan, in his race with daylight passed over Indianapolis at 7:29 a. m. central standard time, negotiating the 110 miles between Dayton and this city in forty-four minutes or at a rate of speed of approximately 165 miles an hour.

From Indianapolis, Lieut. Maughan hit north of the due east and west line he had been following from Dayton and passed south of Chrisman, Ill., at 8:30 a. m. central standard time. He headed north and was racing with a storm which appeared in the vicinity of Paris and Marshall, Illinois. His whirlwind speed continued. He made 90 miles from Indianapolis to Chrisman in about thirty three minutes. He passed Tuscola, Ill., at 8:40 a. m. central standard time and was headed straight for Springfield, according to telegraphed reports reaching here.

He passed Hammond, Ill., at 8:46.

Mitchell Field, New York, June 23.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, army flyer, hopped off in his single seater pursuit plane at 3:59 o'clock, daylight time this morning in his attempt to make a dawn to dusk flight to San Francisco.

It was the flyer's third attempt within a year to outspeed the sun across the continent.

Maughan expects to make the 2,670 mile trip to the coast in 17 and one half hours, reaching San Francisco at 9:41 o'clock tonight (standard time).

A star studded sky with but a slight haze around the moon rewarded Maughan's three day wait for favorable weather. A light wind from the west with no sign of fog was reported from observations taken an hour before the flight.

Maughan will make four stops for refueling—at Dayton, Ohio, St. Joseph, Mo., Cheyenne, Wyo., and Salsdoro, Utah. The lieutenant plans to average 163 miles an hour.

A small group of friends and army officials surrounded Maughan as he strapped on his parachute seat. After a personal inspection of the plane, he stepped casually into the cockpit.

Edwin Johnson, his sidekick shouted: "Don't forget Russ, to get back for the air circus, the fourth of July."

"I will," replied Maughan with a quiet smile.

The motor roared and with a wave of his hand, Maughan sped down the field. A few seconds later the blue and yellow flashes from his exhaust marked him streaming across the sky headed west.

The flight is to attempt to prove the air force can be mobilized on either coast within a day and is under the direction of Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air corps.

Maughan, for the Pulitzer race in 1922 at Detroit. He is 31 years old. His home is in Hober City, Utah, and his wife and two children plan to meet him at his stop at Salsdoro.

Maughan issued a statement before the flight, deploring the fact people looked upon the venture as nothing more than a "stunt."

"It is an attempt to show the people of the United States, the necessity for keeping the air service equipment up to date," he said.

Army fliers, he declared, given modern equipment can be mobilized anywhere in the land within a few hours in the event of possible enemy attack. Maughan carried a copy of every New York morning paper which he hoped to deliver to Mayor Ralph in San Francisco this evening.

Dayton, Ohio, June 23.—After over an hour's delay caused by a faulty gasoline line, Lieut. Russell L. Maughan in his pursuit plane, ripped out of McCook Field at 8:15 for St. Joseph, Mo., on the next leg of his flight across the continent with the sun.

Maughan left New York at 3:59 a. m. New York time and landed here at 7:05 a. m. Eastern Standard time.

Leniency Shown.
Cincinnati, June 23.—Robert Co. not indicted on the charge of having embezzled $1,553 from the Fifth-Third national bank of this city, was sentenced to remain in the custody of the United States marshal for one hour and to pay a fine of $25.

CONN SUCCEEDS JUDGE WANAMAKER AS OHIO JURIST

Columbus, June 23.—In announcing the appointment of Harry L. Conn of Van Wert, state director of insurance, as associate justice of the Ohio supreme court, Governor Donahoe declared Mr. Conn was named solely on his reputation as a lawyer and his record as state insurance commissioner, which has attracted not only statewide, but national recognition. The governor said that appointment was unsolicited by Mr. Conn, his name being brought to his attention by many friends throughout the state.

"I consider Mr. Conn one of the best qualified lawyers in the state to sit on the bench, as his temperament is judicial in every respect, as shown in his work in the insurance department," the governor added.

Mr. Conn will serve until Nov. 4, filling the unexpired term of Judge Wanamaker. Election of a judge to fill out the term between Nov. 4 and Jan. 1 will be decided at the November election. For the past 15 years Mr. Conn has specialized in insurance law. He succeeds the late Judge R. M. Wanamaker, who took his own life at a local hospital where he had been undergoing treatment for a nervous disorder.

Harvest Hands Wanted.
Washington, June 23.—The labor department estimates that 50,000 workers must be imported into the Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas wheat fields to harvest this year's wheat crop. The harvest has already started in some parts of Texas, and while sufficient labor has been furnished to the Fort Worth section several thousand more men will be needed in the Panhandle section than can be had in the state. Several thousand men also will be needed in the Oklahoma fields and as soon as the harvest there is completed, the Kansas crop will be ready.

Leniency Shown.
Cincinnati, June 23.—Robert Co. not indicted on the charge of having embezzled $1,553 from the Fifth-Third national bank of this city, was sentenced to remain in the custody of the United States marshal for one hour and to pay a fine of $25.

SMITH AND M'ADOO CLAIM NOMINATION AT BEING CERTAIN

New York, June 23.—Governor Al Smith of New York and William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, are both claiming the Democratic presidential nomination. Statements were made by each on the eve of the convention.

Governor Smith said: "I feel I will be the nominee. The real strength of my position is that the rank and file of the Democrats of this country would like to see me nominated. I have not met a single delegate, and I've seen a lot of them, who has not told me that. That may sound chummy, or egotistical, but it is not meant that way. We have had assurances of support from places and from persons that we had considered 'enemy territory.' I am satisfied with the outlook."

Mr. McAdoo was equally confident. "Everything is moving satisfactorily as far as we are concerned," he said. "We are getting every encouragement. The outlook could not be better."

The former secretary brushed aside all questions concerning the platform, Ku Klux Klanism, prohibition and kindred controversial subjects, which have engendered so much bitter feeling between the Smith and McAdoo camps. "My views on those subjects," he said shortly, "are well known and need not be repeated here. They are questions for the platform committee to settle, anyway, and not the candidates. I shall not attempt to control the view of any man on the platform."

A dozen dark horses expect to benefit in the event that both McAdoo and Smith fail to corral enough votes to land the nomination. The most favored ones appear to be John W. Davis, Senator Samuel M. Ralston, Oscar W. Underwood, former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio and David P. Houston, with a dozen more trailing in the distance.

Today witnessed a period of missionary work among the arrivals such as has seldom been witnessed at national conventions. Both McAdoo and Smith managers have reduced this work to a scientific basis. By opening time tomorrow both camps will have a fairly accurate and comprehensive outline of just where they stand.

Trailing the Smith and McAdoo handlers into the lairs of delegates are the Davis people, who, it is said, are slowly making real progress toward making Davis the "compromise" that a deadlock inevitably produces. They are making few claims, but several leaders of the movement expressed the belief that ultimately the convention will have to turn to Davis. He has more potential power than any of the dark horses, they say.

The Smith managers have under consideration a bold and daring move, should the convention deadlock. It consists briefly of inviting Mr. McAdoo to appear before the convention with the governor and have both explain their views to the delegates on the controversial issues and invite questions.

The novelty of it appealed to Governor Smith. "I am ready to go before this convention or any other convention and explain my views on anything," said Governor Smith.

ANTIOCH STUDENTS MAKE BUSY PLANS AFTER GRADUATION

Wardle Press Service Yellow Springs, O.

Future plans of the sixteen graduates of Antioch College, who received their diplomas last Saturday, cover a wide field of activities. Many are going into educational work in the fall. Others expect to continue their studies before entering upon their life work. Still others are going into business.

Miss Wilma Compton, B. S., Co-shooton, Ohio, is the only one of the graduates who took her entire college course at Antioch, most of them having come since the reorganization. Miss Compton has specialized in education, teaching in the Miami Township schools for the last two years for her co-operative work. She plans to spend her summer at home, after which she will resume her teaching.

Miss Esther Corry, B. S., Yellow Springs, started her college career in Miami University. At Antioch she has taken up home economics. After spending the summer in California and in Yellowstone National Park, she will take up teaching.

Miss Isabelle Frankhauser, B. A., Hillsdale, Michigan, before coming to Antioch spent a year each at Hillsdale College, National Park Seminary, and George Washington University, and also spent some time in the Michigan State Capitol doing secretarial work there. She has taught for a year at the Antioch School and expects to continue in educational work, teaching in her home state of Michigan.

Miss Mildred Rose Hansen, B. A., of New York City, graduated five years ago from the Technical Normal School of Chicago and has since spent a year each at Nebraska and Barnard and two years at Hunter College. During the past year she has been instructor in physical education at Antioch as well as taking the prescribed course of study. Her future plans are still unsettled but she will probably continue in physical education work.

Miss Dorothy Jewett, B. A., Dayton, came to Antioch the first year of its reorganization from Mt. Vernon Seminary. In Dayton she has been doing co-operative work at Moraine Park School and at the National Soldiers' home. After spending the summer at home, Miss Jewett expects to return again to her teaching.

Miss Margaret A. Shelley, B. A., of Xenia, has commuted from her home each day and has, therefore, been little seen on the college campus. Previous to her matriculation at Antioch, she was a student of the College of the Sacred Heart.

Chester A. Green, B. S., Gunnison.

Col. spent a year at his home town college, Western State, followed by a year at the University of Colorado. Two years ago he came to Antioch, taking up business administration. In the fall he plans to go to Columbia and enter the hardware business, after spending a two months vacation at his home.

Ching Ju Ho, B. A., Tientsin, China, spent four years at Tsing Hua College in Peking before coming to Antioch. Throughout the past year, in addition to his studies, he has acted as instructor in Chinese and Assistant in Psychology at the College. Mr. Ho has decided to study three years for a Ph. D. at Columbia University, New York City and then spend a year in Europe, afterward returning to his native land to pursue educational administration.

Howard Bertram John, B. A., Dayton, first took two years at Michigan. After coming to Antioch, he was assistant manager of the Woolworth store in Lima, and this year instructor in accounting at Antioch. Mr. John will remain at Antioch as a member of the faculty, retaining his present position.

John M. Jones, B. A., Scranton, Pa., preceded his studies at Antioch by a year at Carnegie Institute of Technology and one at the Wharton School of Commerce and Finance. At Antioch he has specialized in industrial engineering and expects to enter the business world in the fall.

Harvey E. Lynch, B. A., Superior, Wis., attended normal school at home, coming to Antioch to take up the study of industrial relations. For the last year, he has been assistant in the personnel department of the college, in which capacity he will remain in Yellow Springs during the summer months.

Joseph A. Newhouse, B. S., comes from Seattle, Wash., where he attended the University of Washington. Although his chief interest has been in engineering, he has, while here, been in the leather goods retail business, as manager of the Antioch Specialties Company. Mr. Newhouse is not saying what his plans are, but it is believed that he expects to cool off during the summer months among the Alaska Eskimoes.

David Rubenstein, B. S., Chicago, studied at Ohio State and at Northwestern University before he came to Antioch. The Antioch Bookstore and "The Little White Store Under the Trees" the college haberdashery, were originated by him. Mr. Rubenstein is interested in store management and plans to enter the business world in Columbus, where he will make his home with Mrs. Rubenstein.

Truman S. Safford, B. A., Detroit, Mich., spent his freshman year at Michigan, coming to Antioch the first year after its reorganization. While here, he has studied continuously as a "C" student instead of taking the co-operative work. During the past year, Mr. Safford has been editor-in-chief of "The Antiochian," the college weekly news sheet. Mr. Safford has not announced his future plans as yet.

Willard K. Trout, B. A., Aurora, Ill., was one of the first recruits for the New Antioch, coming from the University of Illinois. His co-operative work took him to a cordage factory in Xenia. At Antioch, Mr. Trout has been studying business management and expects to continue his after college work in this field.

Warren K. Wilkerson, B. S., Walton, Iowa, began his college work at Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Iowa. At Antioch, his major interest has been education. He has, during his stay at Antioch been teaching at the Antioch School where he was housemaster. He expects to continue in this field of work, making a total of eight of the sixteen graduates who plan to do educational work.

BOWERSVILLE 9 DEFEATS JEFF

Bowersville defeated Jeffersonville at Jeffersonville Sunday 2 to 1 in a ten inning pitchers' battle between Wells of Bowersville and Hendricks of Jeffersonville.

A peculiar scoring coincidence marked the first inning. When the first two Bowersville men were retired, Shadley singled and stole second, scoring on N. Murrell's single before the next hitter was retired. Jeffersonville scored in exactly the same manner. After two were out, Toland singled and stole second, scoring on Matthews' single before the next batter was retired.

Big Ed Leach, of Jamestown, formerly with Washington, Xenia and Bowersville, was Wells' dish, as the Bowersville hurler whiffed him three times. Matthews, Toland and Dawes, with the superb pitching of Hendricks are giving Jeffersonville a crack team deserving of better support.

Wells scored the winning run for Bowersville in the tenth, not two hits in four trips, and only allowed four hits during the game. After the fourth inning Bowersville will play Alpha next Sunday and will play the Xenia Reserves in August. The score:

Bowersville — 1000000001—251
Jeffersonville — 1000000000—142

WATER SUPPLY WINS APPROVAL OF STATE HEALTH OFFICIALS

After making their annual examination of the Xenia public water supply recently, representatives of the State Department of Health declared the local system is being operated efficiently and in all respects, meets the approval of the department, according to a report to authorities.

It was said an analysis of samples of water at the Oldtown pumping station and at the Cincinnati Pike station, indicated the absence of colon bacilli and an analysis of filtered water showed the absence of iron. This indicates that the iron removal plant is operating efficiently.

The general cleanup and beautification work now being undertaken by city officials at the Oldtown Station, was commended by the department.

He then forced Miss McNelly from the car and to accompany him to an abandoned mining tunnel, where he attacked her and fired two shots into her body, leaving her for dead. She eventually recovered and was a witness against Ward.

SUN WILL CONTINUE FUNCTIONING FOR INDEFINITE TIME AUTHORITY THINKS

(Copyright 1924 by I. N. T.)
(Copyright 1924 by International News Service)

Washington, June 23.—Many amateur weather sharps have been saying things about the sun behind its back since the weather got out of hand that today Dr. C. G. Abbott, director of the Smithsonian institutions astrophysical observatory, came to its defense.

Dr. Abbott and the sun have been pals for years. He has measured its heat from mountain peaks and desert sands. He has been a virtual god-father to each batch of spots it has borne.

"Everyone is saying," he was reminded, "that the last cold winter and the present cool spring and summer are due to the sun and its spots. Are they?"

"It is altogether possible that they are," Dr. Abbott said, "but it would be difficult for me to prove it. My observations have shown me that the sun since 1922 has been throwing off 2 1/2 to 3 per cent less heat than it did between 1914 and 1922."

"But, whether or not we are having cooler weather as a result, I cannot say. The earth is a strange body. Because of its oceans and ice and atmospheric phenomena, the condition may be purely local."

The sun just at present is having a chill, Dr. Abbott explained where before 1922 it had a fever of 1 per cent above normal. The extra solar radiation he explained, was due to the sun's spots, which since have nearly disappeared.

"When there are many of these spots, breaking out like a rash," he continued, "the amount of solar radiation is heightened. The sun soon will have another crop of spots. There will be more heat thrown off. We may as a consequence have warmer weather on earth. Local conditions, however may counteract that."

"What are sun spots?" was the next question.

"You may compare them," he said, "to the little whirls of dust or sand you see in the streets or on a desert. The whirl is one of gases which constitute this thing we call the sun. The whirl mounts higher and higher, like a parasol or a mushroom. At the top the heat drawn into the whirl is spread out."

"The result is the same as stirring a grate of coals with a poker. Fresh surfaces are exposed and extra radiation provoked."

Then the scientist was asked what caused the spots to come and go.

"That is a matter of conjecture," he confessed. "Doubtless it is an internal feature. We have been observing this phenomenon only in recent years. We do know that the period of spotting is spread over 11 years. Draw an equator around the sun. The first spots appear in the higher latitudes. They thicken out passing years and begin to break out in greatest numbers toward the equator of the sun. The minimum is reached near the equator as the eleven years draw to a close. We now are at that minimum and about to begin a new cycle."

Dr. Abbott's attention was directed to the predictions recently made by some scientists that the sun was about to crack and one half divorce the other half for good and form new suns; that the sun was going to freeze to death and frostbite the earth with it; that it was going to blow up and that all manner of catastrophes are pending.

"I think nothing of the kind will happen," he said. "Observations have convinced me that the sun will go on functioning as it is now for an indefinite time."

MODISH MITZI—Lovely Weather For Tennis

With the merry sunshine streaming in the window, Mitzi reflects that life is good and that it is the proper weather for tennis. She is dressed in a sports frock of white washable challis plaided in black, but of course she thinks she'll change before she starts.

No, this is not Mitzi's pet back-handed wallop—it is only a gesture to show off her choice of tennis garments. A maize colored crepe silk with a double box-plated skirt. Perhaps, though it is too flyaway for tennis. Silk is, usually. But it is undoubtedly a pretty costume.

This is more practical for strenuous exercise, thinks Mitzi: A tailored blouse with a white flannel skirt, pin-striped in black, and a scarlet flannel jacket. The jacket can always be discarded if the state of the score seems to call for unwanted effort.

Or she can wear a waistcoat blouse with short sleeves. That's most practical of all—however by the time Mitzi has decided on that it's pouring rain outside. She is a bit annoyed, but then one can always play tennis. Very likely it will be fair tomorrow and she has her costume decided on anyway.

PICKING CANDIDATES A QUEER MATTER BUT AFTERWARDS YOU MORALIZE ON IT

Many of us not there have been about as "worked up" to get our choice at Cleveland last week as the delegates. Therefore we enjoy a little fun now and then, as told by one who was there, the Public Ledger correspondent Clinton W. Gilbert. He says: I am not going to pick the Democratic candidate for President. If the job of covering a national convention consists of knowing in advance what a thousand delegates and a lot of little bosses who don't know how to boss are going to do. I am going to look for something easier. A few years ago it was simpler. You waited till the boss said the word. The newspaper editors, at least a good many of them, did not venture upon making predictions for fear of trenching upon the bosses' function. You wrote what happened and let it go at that. Now you are constantly in danger of writing what hasn't happened and never will happen. I have just gone through a convention which had six different sure candidates for Vice President in twenty-four hours. Really, it exhausts your capacity for enthusiasm to be called upon to glow over six totally different kinds of men all in the space of one writing day. When you get to the third or fourth wonderful candidate you haven't any adjective left.

Nominating Presidents or Vice Presidents is like trying to bring down a whole flock of partridges at one shot. When I was a boy I came upon four partridges eating buds off an apple tree. I aimed my gun at one of them and I was paralyzed at the thought that if I fired the other three would fly away. I tried it successfully on each of the four and could not pull the trigger, so appalling was the idea of what possibilities I should lose if I fired at any one of the four. So finally I aimed right in the middle of the four and they all flew away.

That's the way it is when you start to pick out a President or Vice President. There are generally possible votes enough to elect a ticket if you could bag them all. But when you finally nominate a man, either part of them or all of them fly away. That was what was the matter whenever I started to pick out a Vice President at Cleveland. If I said "Hoover," I thought, "Here's where we lose all those votes." If I said "Lowden," it was, "Here's where we lose all those steer votes." If I said "Borah," I thought that was shooting into the middle of the bunch and maybe they all would fly away. Really, I couldn't do it. And I can't do it at the Democratic convention. And I predict that if we continue to go more and more kinds of votes, wet votes, dry votes, farmers' votes, and Wall Street votes, the votes of the fellows who wear wool socks and the votes of the fellows who wear cotton socks, the votes of the fellows who wear long drawers and the votes of the fellows who wear knee-length drawers, I predict that it will soon be so that no one will have nerve enough to nominate any candidate for fear of the vast number of votes that will be lost.

ONLY SUPPLY AND DEMAND

A month ago nothing would save the farmers save and except the McNary-Haugen bill, fixing the price of wheat. This was the latest nostrum of the panacea-peddlers, and without it wheat prices could never rise and more wheat farms must be abandoned. Congress had no more than killed the McNary-Haugen bill and gone home until wheat prices rose ten cents per bushel within a week. The farm bloc had nothing to do with it. All the laws ever passed by it are not worth a pinch of the old law of supply and demand. That is what is operating in the wheat pits now. The estimated yield this year is 93,000,000 bushels short of what it was in 1923. Up goes the price of wheat. It is a strange thing about these help-the-farmer laws. They give him more credit and, drowned in a sea of credit, his last state is worse than his first. They take the wheat-pit gamblers off his back and the price of wheat falls. His price-fixing law fails and wheat goes up. If wheat goes to $1.25 a bushel this fall, how will the snake-doctors explain it?—Public Ledger.

SHOUTING TO KEEP UP THEIR SPIRITS

The LaFollette folk in Washington are some of the grandest little claimers in the world. Monday they were claiming the LaFollette ticket would run second in the race this fall and would finish ahead of the Republicans. Yesterday they announced LaFollette organizations had been set up in twenty-four states, with others being organized. They claim also that the hammering LaFollette's friends got at the Republican convention in Cleveland has strengthened him and stimulated the third-party move. They cap the climax by lauding the record of Congress and asserting that it has an "unequalled record." By the time they finish up at Cleveland they may have hypnotized themselves into taking the whole business seriously. However, November 4 will furnish a cure for what ails them.

AT HOME

The road seems long today, but at the end They wait to welcome me; There, when I've turned the bend, A smile I'll see. And none shall turn away in scornful pride—Only by strangers is man's best denied.

Others have laughed because my pace is slow But when I reach the gate They shall run up as though they do not know That I'm not great; Strangers may jibe, but soon a little chap Shall shout with glee and snuggle in my lap.

Shabby my garments now and sadly soiled, But what is dress? she knows: it is for her that I have toiled, And her caress Will fall as softly on my cheek to-night As though I wore soft linen, spotless white.

Richer you are perhaps in gold and fame, Proud men who pass; But when the night comes down you cannot claim, What's your class, A truer welcome from your own who wait, Than that which mine shall give me at my gate.

INDUCTOR COMPASS GONE; IS SOUGHT

Dayton, O., June 23.—When Lieutenant John A. Macready's airplane crashed after he stepped off in a parachute, when the motor died, it carried the only earth inductor compass of the kind in existence.

What became of the compass no one knows but McCook Field officials are making a determined effort to locate it.

It was a McCook Field development designed to keep a flier on his course regardless of flying conditions and land him at his destination.

McCook Field has drawings for the compass of this particular type but it is figured that it was carried away from the scene of the wreck by some souvenir hunter. Special request was publicly made today asking that it be returned to the field.

A WOMAN WHO WON

One day recently I wandered into a wonderfully attractive and appealing eating place in New York City.

On the window outside I caught the name of Alice Foote MacDougall, and I said to myself, "Who is she?"

I was greatly taken by the beauty and arrangement of the place. Everything seemed to be in such perfect taste. You almost felt that you weren't just off the busy street with its hurrying folks, but in some quiet Italian court.

The lady who gave me my seat had a smile upon her face and the quaint tables, dishes and exquisitely cooked food made me glad that I had to break the day with an hour to eat.

But what interested me most was the story of the one who had created the place as told by herself in a little pamphlet that I found on my table.

She had been thrown upon the world a widow with three small children. She started with only $38, selling coffee. She was 40 years old at the time. Necessity compelled courage. Today finds Alice Foote MacDougall famous in her business and a remarkable success. And this is what she says has brought about her success:

First: A distinct desire to be independent.

Second: A close, insistent study of the conditions that confront the housewife and a desire on my part to satisfy those conditions.

Third: A determination that nothing should stand between me and success.

I don't see how anyone—man or woman—could fail if he followed out such a plan.

Here was a woman who believed in herself and in the thing that she set out to do, and who determined to do it just a little better than it had ever been done before.

And she won—even as you may!

McADOO ADDRESSES WEST'S DELEGATES AT HOTEL MONDAY

New York, June 23.—Dedicating himself to the "recovery of this government from privilege and rebauchery," William Gibbs McAdoo today greeted the delegates from the western states and territories at the hotel where he is to stick with him in his efforts to secure the Democratic presidential nomination to the last ditch.

The Californian again paid his respects to the "hostess press of New York." He warned his audience against statements that "McAdoo delegates after the first few ballots would go over to another candidate."

"Never," shouted the crowd, "we're with you to the last ditch!" "That is right my friends," McAdoo replied. "You didn't come here to betray a trust; you came to dedicate one."

McAdoo's attack on the New York press was in retaliation for an almost constant bombardment which he has been scheduled to since his arrival here. He has been referred to here as "Doherty's lawyer," as "Charles Morris' lawyer," and his record of legal appearance before governmental departments following his retirement from the treasury has been reviewed at length in a highly uncomplimentary fashion.

Its effect on the delegates has been problematical but it has enraged his managers and friends. They are writing letters to the newspapers protesting against this "unfairness" and lack of hospitality and blaming Governor Smith's forces for inciting it.

So intense has the feeling become between the McAdoo and Smith camps that there seemed an excellent prospect of forensic fireworks in the convention next week.

BRAND URGES NEW ROAD POLICY FOR REPUBLICAN PARTY

Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, has written letters to delegates to the Republican state convention, urging adoption of a new road policy to protect rural interests.

His letter contends that 68 per cent of the property of the state is in the cities and the automobiles and trucks are in proportion to the property, while only 32 per cent of the property in the state is rural. Yet, he declares, the rural property is paying close to 70 per cent of the road assessments and the city property only about 30 per cent.

Congressman Brand alleges this situation has resulted in a great burden to many farmers, sometimes involving bankruptcy, and he lays the blame for the last defeat of the Republican party in Ohio for governor, to this cause. He alleges that main roads are now used more by the people in the cities, since the introduction of the automobile, than by the people in the country and that the fact that rural people are being assessed for a major share of the cost of construction is unfair.

The system is now operated under assessment laws passed in 1904 and unchanged since then. He declares it is now time for the state legislature to take over the state highway system, which includes the main roads of the state, amounting to about 10,000 miles, for maintenance and construction and that assessments should no longer be made in the counties where the roads run but should be paid out of the state treasury.

Congressman Brand believes the ever-growing surplus in the state treasury would take care of the $6,000,000 road program of last year easily. He urges delegates to place the state convention on record in favor of building main roads at the state's expense and of the counties taking care of the balance of the roads in the counties.

FARM PROGRESS

LACK OF EARLY SEED IS FOUND; FEAR FOR CORN

An emergency inquiry by farm crops professors at the Ohio State University has, they say, failed to uncover anything like enough "early" seed corn to take care of replanting on Ohio farms where the first planting has been washed out, or where the seed has rotted in the ground during the excessive rains this spring.

Most Ohio farmers will consequently have to replant from the seed they have and take their chances on a crop next fall. The danger is that frosts will kill the stalks before ears of the varieties usual in Ohio have time to mature. May 10, the average seeding date for the state, went by with little corn going in, on account of the weather, and torrential rains since then have aggravated the situation, the crops men believe.

An "early" variety is one that matures early in the fall. Seed of such varieties is still recommended for replanting, if the farmer can get it. The college discovered little of such fast-growing seed as Pride of the North, Silver King and Minnesota 13 in the hands of Ohio seed companies.

J. B. Park, head of the farm crops department, says that he has no desire to play the alarmist, but adds that it is no news to farmers that, unless this summer soon develops a lot of good growing weather, and keeps at it late into September, the state's corn crop will suffer greatly.

The daily test

SUPPOSE you tested everything before buying. . . . Held it under searching light, examined it, turned it critically over and over. Not then could you feel so sure of it as of advertised goods you have never seen.

Wares advertised have already been tested. They have proved their worth under publicity that would have illumined defects. Thousands of buyers have tried them before you—and been satisfied. Without this satisfaction, they couldn't continue to be advertised goods.

That thousand-fold testing goes on each day. Advertisers invite it. They believe in their wares, and prove their wares justify belief by advertising to you daily.

Who'll Bell The Cat?

One of the old fables tells how all the mice held a meeting one day and decided their common enemy, the cat, would have to be belled for their safety—so that they would always be warned of its stealthy approach.

But when the question was raised as to who would bell the cat—every little mouse was silent.

Of course this fable was originated before a perfect classified advertising medium had been developed. If the Gazette-Republican A-B-C Classified Section had been known, the fable would have gone on to tell how easily the mice found a dog who specialized as a cat "beller."

Nowadays to ask in doubting tones who will do a certain thing—savors of the ridiculous.

People turn—to the common safety of their pocket-books—to the A-B-C Classified Section where specialists of all kinds offer their services.

You, too, will find safety in these economical and profitable offers.

FIRST SHOOT TO BE STAGED ON NEW TRAPS

Dayton, June 23.—The inauguration of the new shooting grounds of the National Amateur Trapshooting association will take place July 22, in Dayton, with the holding of the annual shoot of the Central Ohio Trapshooters' League.

This event will be shot several weeks previous to the Grand American handicap shoot, which will take place here on the new grounds, August 25 to 30. It is estimated that over 1500 shots from all over the United States will participate in the event.

Permanent headquarters for the A. T. U., in Dayton, was made possible by the work of local sportsmen in donating the grounds and $20,000, to the association to come here. The new quarters are located at the intersection of the National and Dixie highways, just north of McCook Field.

RARIFIED AIR IS CAUSE OF HITTING FEST

Salt Lake City, June 23.—Slugging, unequalled in the annals of organized baseball, took place recently at the local grounds when a total of 264 hits were made during a series of seven games between San Francisco and Salt Lake City Clubs of the Pacific Coast League.

Naturally an explanation was sought other than the weakness of the pitchers, as the batting fest was general between these two teams and the teams of other clubs who played at the local park.

The high altitude, 4200 feet, was thought by J. Cecil Alter, chief of the weather bureau here, to have an effect on it, because of the rarified condition of the atmosphere, the ball finds less resistance, and consequently travels faster. Also, as a general rule the players are in better physical condition.

Sport writers in general, appeared to accept this theory as a cause for numerous freakish plays that have occurred here in the past without apparent reason.

MASONS LISTEN TO SPECIAL SERMON ON ST. JOHN'S DAY

A large body of members of the Masonic fraternity attended the St. John's Day services at the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday. The lodge members entered the church in a body and were seated in a center section reserved for them.

The Rev. W. H. Telford's sermon on "The Higher Gate," was delivered to the Masonic order. He welcomed lodge members and declared that "the relationship of the church with the fraternal organizations is always supplemental, never substitutional." "The church stands for the expression of worship, the devotion to God, and the salvation of the soul. Nothing can take the place of these. The modes of expression of the remainder of one's life is any brotherhood for good which supplements the church and never subtracts. Universal brotherhood of all mankind is possible only through the unifying power of Jesus Christ in the hearts of mankind," were several points of the Rev. Mr. Telford's address.

The Masonic quartet, composed of Messrs. Louis Clark, Lawrence Wagner, R. M. Copey and Roy Spahr, sang two selections "Rock of Ages," and "When We Stand Before the King."

NOTIFY YOUR FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY WHEN YOU INSTALL A RADIO

Insurance Company of New York City
Dear Sir:
I am about to install a radio in my home. Please advise me of the conditions under which you will effect the liability of my policy.

If you install a radio in your home be sure to notify your fire insurance company.

Most insurance companies will not increase the premium on a house which has a radio receiving set installed in it, but failure to notify the company of such technical "risk" as the addition of a radio set may invalidate the policy.

A short letter to the insurance company stating the fact that a set has been installed is usually all the trouble it is necessary to take. Expert electricians have agreed that a receiving set in the house (crystal or tube) when properly installed and carrying a lightning arrester does not increase the fire risk. Insurance companies have accepted this opinion.

LOVE-OR FAME?

VIOLET DARE
Author of "The Half-Time Wife"

The story thus far:
DOROTHY LANE goes to New York to visit
PERSIS GRANT, and gets a chance to act in a motion picture as double for a famous star. She meets

LAWRENCE FRENCH, a young publicity man. A producer, named HOPSON, invites the girls to go to a theatre and dance club with him and some friends. French wants Dorothy not to have anything to do with the Hopson crowd, and as a result she and Persis quarrel and she decides to live alone.

XII—IN AN AGENT'S OFFICE

I COULDN'T say anything back to Persis, of course. But I stayed home that night, in spite of her protests, and the next morning I got up early, while she was still asleep, and slipped out of the house. I had decided that I'd go to that agent Lawrence French had told me about, and see if I couldn't get into some pictures as an extra.

VIOLET DARE

And then I was going to find another place to live. The thought of starting out in New York all alone frightened me a little; I'd heard so many tales of girls getting into the wrong sort of boarding house or hotel that I knew I'd have to be careful. I decided to go to the Y. W. C. A. and get a list of places to live in.

So I started from the agent's office, with not much money, and very little knowledge of New York, but more determined than ever to succeed in getting into motion pictures. And I stumbled right into the nicest place I could possibly have wanted.

I went straight to the agent's office, because work seemed more important than anything else to me that morning. I thought I'd just go in and register, and then start out to look for a room.

The agent's office was a dingy little place, up a short flight of stairs from the street, and it was simply jammed with people. They overflowed it and filled the little stairway—I had to push my way through men, women, and children.

Most of them were sort of theatrical-looking people; the women had on a good deal of paint, and the men were the awfully massaged-looking kind—that's the only way I can describe them. Even the children had a stagey look. And as I edged my way up the stairs I heard scraps of conversation like, "Well, I simply told him right there that it was too small a part for me; I couldn't afford to consider it," and "Norma Talmadge herself asked that I be included in the cast, so I heard, but, of course, the director had a friend who wanted the part, and—"

"I want to see him now," I insisted.

Upstairs there was a low, wooden railing separating the main waiting room from the entrance to an inner office; behind it an office boy stood, telling people that Mr. Little was very busy, and calling them in one by one as somebody from an inner room called to him. I managed to make my way through the crowd, and told the boy that Lawrence French had sent me to see Mr. Little.

"He's pretty busy right now, casting a big picture," the boy told me, with sort of an insolent look. "You'd better come back later."

"I want to see him now," I insisted. "It's extremely important."

The girl next me giggled, and I could feel my cheeks getting hot—I found out afterwards that all these people had extremely important business with Mr. Little when they were looking for a job. And I don't suppose I'd ever have reached the inner office if just then Mr. Little himself hadn't come into the outer office, with two other men, and climbed up on a chair.

INTRODUCING "E" BRAND IODIZED SALT

THE PREVENTATIVE AND CURE FOR GOITRE

The state of Ohio is in what is known among scientists as one of the goitre belts of the world. In this locality goitre, in endemic and more advanced form, is alarmingly evident.

After years of research and experimental work eminent physicians have learned that endemic goitre is due to lack of iodine in the thyroid gland. It is an established fact that this deficiency can be overcome and goitre cured by the introduction of iodine into the system in the form of sodium iodide.

IODIZED SALT

has proved to be the ideal medium for the assimilation of this element into the system. As salt is a commodity necessary to the healthful life of all human beings and animals a drive is now being made by physicians and scientists of the country to prevent goitre by the introduction of iodized salt.

A SAFE METHOD

Years of exhaustive research and experimenting have perfected the exact proportions used in IODIZED SALT. It is absolutely SAFE AND WHOLESOME in whatever amounts used.

In "E" BRAND IODIZED SALT the proportion of iodine is so small that it is not noticeable in any way in the taste of the salt. It is the same clear, sparkling, snowy white salt with this SAFE, HEALTHFUL, TASTELESS element added.
